

New York Store

Established 1853.

Sole Agents Butterick Patterns.

Handkerchiefs

Three special values in them for to-day.

Ladies' fine Swiss embroidered, extra neat and attractive 25c

Ladies' all-linen initial fine quality, narrow hems, nice embroidered letters and designs 25c

A great variety of them in silk, wool, and wool and silk. Also a colored bordered silk. Handkerchiefs in 2c to 50c patterns. $2.00

—Center aisle.

Pettis Dry Goods Co.

Smoking Jackets

From $5 to $25.

Bath Robes

From $5 to $22.50.

Umbrellas

From $1.50 to $18.

Neckwear

From 50c to $4.

Suit Cases and Traveling Bags

All grades, from $2.50 to $35.

Gloves, Shirts, Silk Suspenders, Toilet Cases, Full Dress Shields, Etc.

The grandest line of Christmas novelties in the city.

PAUL H. KRAUSS

44 E. WASHINGTON ST.

Her Christmas Greeting

To please her you should order one of those handsome Christmas boxes of Huyler's Gunther's Maillard's Allegettes.

Any size from one to five pounds.

We have a complete line of toilet articles, put up in handsome boxes suitable for gifts, and perfumes of every known kind and grade in beautiful cartons. If you are in doubt you may be sure of finding just what you want at

Huder's Drug Store,

Corner Washington and Penn. Sts.

Table Delicacies

A FINE LINE OF SMALL NUTS, FIGS, DATES, RAISINS, CURRANTS, ORANGES,

California Nuts, Florida Russets, Citrons, Lemon Peel, Grapes.

Better than any obtainable elsewhere.

237 H. Gluck & Co., Mass. Avenue, Old Phone, 1571. New Phone, 979.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Lady of Lyons" at the Grand Last Night.

"The Lady of Lyons" was given a very uneven performance by the Grand Stock Company last night. There was a lack of continuity and the actors whose parts threw them together displayed marked contrast, but these are faults that will doubtless disappear with another presentation. Taking into consideration the fact that it was the company's first appearance in a costume play, and that the stilted language of a century ago must have been as strange for the players to utter as it was for the audience to hear from the stock company, it is no doubt an excellent piece of work. It is very certain that little fault could be found with Mr. Koller's portrayal of the character of Claude Melnotte. Even when the temptation to lapse into heavy tragedy was well-nigh irresistible, he did not yield. Miss Shannon, for the most part, read her lines with all the power and expression they call for. She has, however, certain overdrawn gestures and a rolling of the head from side to side that tend to mar the finish of her work. She displayed several signs of exceptional richness and beauty. Messrs. Macy and Reynolds represented two of the young noblemen that had been mortally offended by the proud Paillany, and their roles necessarily threw them together much of the time. They should have tried to get more in rapport with each other. Mr. Reynolds portrayed with rare delicacy the lighter type of wealthy young nobleman of the last century, while Mr. Macy presented too great a contrast with his more rugged style of forehead. Miss La Verne had a distressingly meager part, but handled it with such consummate art as to make herself a center of interest at each of her few appearances. Her reading of the scanty lines assigned her was so excellently done as to bring her hearty applause and a curtain call. She also wore several dresses of striking richness. The audience last night was in a most prosperous mood, smiling indulgently upon errors and breaking out into spontaneous and hearty applause with each other. The play was repeated until she joined the principal

DEPAUW TRUSTEES MEET

OVER $100,000 REPORTED AS RAISED WITHIN SIX MONTHS.

Whisky Men Will Not Ask to Have War Tax Removed—American Trade in England.

The trustees of De Pauw University held an informal meeting at the Bates last night in advance of the regular meeting of the board of trustees to be held to-day.

Those present were: Clem Studebaker, of South Bend; Chancellor W. H. Hickman, of Greencastle; Judge J. T. Elliott, of Kokomo; Rev. D. M. Wood, of Lebanon; and J. T. Hamilton, of Chicago.

Chancellor Hickman, who has charge of the field work and is therefore in control of the organized effort throughout the State to raise $500,000 as an endowment for the college, reported that he had raised over $100,000 during the last six months and that of this sum, over $90,000 had been collected during the last three months.

It is settled that there will be no change in the personnel of the faculty and no immediate addition to the present college buildings, although important extensions are contemplated for the future. The business of to-day's meeting will be the election of a routine nature, as the annual election of officers does not take place until next June.

Indian Maidens at Empire.

The Indian Maidens, with Lillian Washburn in the chief role, began an engagement at the Empire Theater yesterday afternoon, playing to a packed house. Miss Washburn is well known on the vaudeville stage as a vocalist. It is claimed she is properly fitted to lead the Indian Maidens because she has Indian blood in her veins.

In the musical farce, "Pocahontas," which opens the performance, Miss Washburn plays an Indian love song and in the whole she gives some vocal selections which are illustrated with living pictures, members of the company posing in these pictures. The Indian marriage dance by the maidens who appear in Indian costume is artistically arranged.

The closing burlesque is entitled "Parisian Follies," which deals with the troubles of a French physician. The solo, in addition to Miss Washburn, includes Tom Nolan and Cora White, who appear in a comedy sketch entitled "A Tramp's History." Both have been seen before with other vaudeville organizations. The Le Mar Sisters, Theresa and Jessie, have come from some of the best dancers in the West and Yost, comedians, have a comparatively new act which "took" with the audience yesterday. Both author and play were new to Indianapolis, but yesterday's enthusiastic reception made it plain that Mr. Le Brand understands thoroughly the wants of patrons of popular houses. "On the Stroke of Twelve" is divided into five acts, all but one of which abound in interesting, not to say intensely exciting, lines and situations. The first act, which relates to the sensational escape from Sing Sing Prison of the hero and his friend in company with the real prisoners, was received with expressions of approval. The play takes its title from the fact that the clock strikes twelve, B. N. Worth, in the role of Moses Levi, carried off the honors, both in his acting and in his rendition of a funny song about the Columbia cup race, sung to the air "I Guess I'll Have to Telegraph My Baby." Harry Barfoot was not a conspicuous success as Henry Rutledge, the hero's father, but made a decided hit as the mysterious prisoner, No. 123. George W. Welch, as Jack Rutledge, and Augustus Halback, as George Bainbridge, were well received. The Misses Lydia and Clara Knott made very pretty pictures in their respective roles of Doris Rutledge and Jess Bainbridge. The scenery and settings are quite in harmony with the incidents of the play. Some startling effects are produced, notably the explosion in the prison in the third act and the burning house in the fourth. "On the Stroke of Twelve" continues with usual daily matinees. Thursday afternoon the play will be succeeded by Isham's Octoroons.

Sol Smith Russell Breaks Down.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Sol Smith Russell was obliged by illness to dismiss his audience at the Grand Opera House to-night. The breakdown occurred in the act, and Mr. Russell was standing behind a long table, the scene being that of a lawyer's office. Of a sudden it became apparent that he had lost his lines. His companion player of the scene tried to prompt him, but without success. Mr. Russell then rose, and in a weak voice and with rather incoherent phrases asked the audience to excuse his further effort and to consider the performance ended. He bowed his head and the curtain came down hurriedly as two of his associates rushed to his aid. He did not collapse utterly, however, as it was feared, but retired with little assistance to his dressing room. He was seen to leave the company with his wife and his manager, F. H. Berger, was driven to his hotel. No word was heard from him since he left the theater. The services of Dr. Frank Billings, nervous specialist, were sought by telephone. Dr. Billings reached the hotel before 11 o'clock. He declined to discuss the condition of his patient. It is denied, however, that the indignation was anything more than temporary in nature.

"Miss Hobbs" Well Received.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Charles Frohman presented Jerome K. Jerome's comedy, "Miss Hobbs," now running at the Lyceum Theater, London, this evening. The play and company met with a cordial reception. The principal roles were taken by Miss Evelyn Millard, Herbert Waring and Miss Agnes Miller.

Notes of the Stage.

It seems that there is nothing in the nature of a strike among the actors of the Grand who resign. He will remain all season.

"A Runaway Girl" will be at English's Opera House Friday night and at the matinee and night performances on Saturday.

Headed by James T. Powers, and including such feminine stars as Marie Celeste and the Misses Booth and Towler, this organization should be able to give an evening of comic opera that has rarely been equaled.

Isham's Octoroons, who follow "On the Stroke of Twelve" at the Park Thursday afternoon, number in their large company twelve persons whose talent as singers and specialty artists has been well known for some time. The farcical sketch entitled "7-11-7," with which the entertainment begins, is the funniest thing of its kind.

The sale of seats for the engagement of Odie Skinner in "The Liars," the first three days of next week, opened with a rush at English's Opera House yesterday morning. Mr. Skinner is always a prime favorite with Indianapolis theatergoers, and his performance in "The Liars" is to be congratulated upon securing him for their Christmas attraction. "The Liars" will be given Monday (Christmas) afternoon and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

A feature of the performance given by Harry Seamon's Extravaganza Company, which comes to the Empire the last three days of this week, is the graceful dancing of petite Addie Pavant, who it is said, has astonished the theatergoers of Australia, Europe and America.

Debate at Marion Club.

The Marion Club debaters will meet at the Marion Club this evening. Linton A. Cox will read a paper on "The Effect of the Spanish-American War on American Industries." Following the reading there will be a general discussion of the subject, to be led by Amos P. Hyman and Crates H. Bowen. No other meeting will be held until Tuesday, Jan. 9.

Christmas Photo Work.

We have special plates, paper and mounts for hurried holiday portraits—and results as good as though ten days were taken. Come for sittings on Friday evening.

KITCHELL STUDIO, 1238 North Pennsylvania street.

DEPAUW TRUSTEES MEET

OVER $100,000 REPORTED AS RAISED WITHIN SIX MONTHS.

Whisky Men Will Not Ask to Have War Tax Removed—American Trade in England.

The trustees of De Pauw University held an informal meeting at the Bates last night in advance of the regular meeting of the board of trustees to be held to-day.

Those present were: Clem Studebaker, of South Bend; Chancellor W. H. Hickman, of Greencastle; Judge J. T. Elliott, of Kokomo; Rev. D. M. Wood, of Lebanon; and J. T. Hamilton, of Chicago.

Chancellor Hickman, who has charge of the field work and is therefore in control of the organized effort throughout the State to raise $500,000 as an endowment for the college, reported that he had raised over $100,000 during the last six months and that of this sum, over $90,000 had been collected during the last three months.

It is settled that there will be no change in the personnel of the faculty and no immediate addition to the present college buildings, although important extensions are contemplated for the future. The business of to-day's meeting will be the election of a routine nature, as the annual election of officers does not take place until next June.

Indian Maidens at Empire.

The Indian Maidens, with Lillian Washburn in the chief role, began an engagement at the Empire Theater yesterday afternoon, playing to a packed house. Miss Washburn is well known on the vaudeville stage as a vocalist. It is claimed she is properly fitted to lead the Indian Maidens because she has Indian blood in her veins.

In the musical farce, "Pocahontas," which opens the performance, Miss Washburn plays an Indian love song and in the whole she gives some vocal selections which are illustrated with living pictures, members of the company posing in these pictures. The Indian marriage dance by the maidens who appear in Indian costume is artistically arranged.

The closing burlesque is entitled "Parisian Follies," which deals with the troubles of a French physician. The solo, in addition to Miss Washburn, includes Tom Nolan and Cora White, who appear in a comedy sketch entitled "A Tramp's History." Both have been seen before with other vaudeville organizations. The Le Mar Sisters, Theresa and Jessie, have come from some of the best dancers in the West and Yost, comedians, have a comparatively new act which "took" with the audience yesterday. Both author and play were new to Indianapolis, but yesterday's enthusiastic reception made it plain that Mr. Le Brand understands thoroughly the wants of patrons of popular houses. "On the Stroke of Twelve" is divided into five acts, all but one of which abound in interesting, not to say intensely exciting, lines and situations. The first act, which relates to the sensational escape from Sing Sing Prison of the hero and his friend in company with the real prisoners, was received with expressions of approval. The play takes its title from the fact that the clock strikes twelve, B. N. Worth, in the role of Moses Levi, carried off the honors, both in his acting and in his rendition of a funny song about the Columbia cup race, sung to the air "I Guess I'll Have to Telegraph My Baby." Harry Barfoot was not a conspicuous success as Henry Rutledge, the hero's father, but made a decided hit as the mysterious prisoner, No. 123. George W. Welch, as Jack Rutledge, and Augustus Halback, as George Bainbridge, were well received. The Misses Lydia and Clara Knott made very pretty pictures in their respective roles of Doris Rutledge and Jess Bainbridge. The scenery and settings are quite in harmony with the incidents of the play. Some startling effects are produced, notably the explosion in the prison in the third act and the burning house in the fourth. "On the Stroke of Twelve" continues with usual daily matinees. Thursday afternoon the play will be succeeded by Isham's Octoroons.

Sol Smith Russell Breaks Down.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Sol Smith Russell was obliged by illness to dismiss his audience at the Grand Opera House to-night. The breakdown occurred in the act, and Mr. Russell was standing behind a long table, the scene being that of a lawyer's office. Of a sudden it became apparent that he had lost his lines. His companion player of the scene tried to prompt him, but without success. Mr. Russell then rose, and in a weak voice and with rather incoherent phrases asked the audience to excuse his further effort and to consider the performance ended. He bowed his head and the curtain came down hurriedly as two of his associates rushed to his aid. He did not collapse utterly, however, as it was feared, but retired with little assistance to his dressing room. He was seen to leave the company with his wife and his manager, F. H. Berger, was driven to his hotel. No word was heard from him since he left the theater. The services of Dr. Frank Billings, nervous specialist, were sought by telephone. Dr. Billings reached the hotel before 11 o'clock. He declined to discuss the condition of his patient. It is denied, however, that the indignation was anything more than temporary in nature.

"Miss Hobbs" Well Received.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Charles Frohman presented Jerome K. Jerome's comedy, "Miss Hobbs," now running at the Lyceum Theater, London, this evening. The play and company met with a cordial reception. The principal roles were taken by Miss Evelyn Millard, Herbert Waring and Miss Agnes Miller.

Notes of the Stage.

It seems that there is nothing in the nature of a strike among the actors of the Grand who resign. He will remain all season.

"A Runaway Girl" will be at English's Opera House Friday night and at the matinee and night performances on Saturday.

Headed by James T. Powers, and including such feminine stars as Marie Celeste and the Misses Booth and Towler, this organization should be able to give an evening of comic opera that has rarely been equaled.

Isham's Octoroons, who follow "On the Stroke of Twelve" at the Park Thursday afternoon, number in their large company twelve persons whose talent as singers and specialty artists has been well known for some time. The farcical sketch entitled "7-11-7," with which the entertainment begins, is the funniest thing of its kind.

The sale of seats for the engagement of Odie Skinner in "The Liars," the first three days of next week, opened with a rush at English's Opera House yesterday morning. Mr. Skinner is always a prime favorite with Indianapolis theatergoers, and his performance in "The Liars" is to be congratulated upon securing him for their Christmas attraction. "The Liars" will be given Monday (Christmas) afternoon and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

A feature of the performance given by Harry Seamon's Extravaganza Company, which comes to the Empire the last three days of this week, is the graceful dancing of petite Addie Pavant, who it is said, has astonished the theatergoers of Australia, Europe and America.

Debate at Marion Club.

The Marion Club debaters will meet at the Marion Club this evening. Linton A. Cox will read a paper on "The Effect of the Spanish-American War on American Industries." Following the reading there will be a general discussion of the subject, to be led by Amos P. Hyman and Crates H. Bowen. No other meeting will be held until Tuesday, Jan. 9.

Christmas Photo Work.

We have special plates, paper and mounts for hurried holiday portraits—and results as good as though ten days were taken. Come for sittings on Friday evening.

KITCHELL STUDIO, 1238 North Pennsylvania street.

DEPAUW TRUSTEES MEET

OVER $100,000 REPORTED AS RAISED WITHIN SIX MONTHS.

Whisky Men Will Not Ask to Have War Tax Removed—American Trade in England.

The trustees of De Pauw University held an informal meeting at the Bates last night in advance of the regular meeting of the board of trustees to be held to-day.

Those present were: Clem Studebaker, of South Bend; Chancellor W. H. Hickman, of Greencastle; Judge J. T. Elliott, of Kokomo; Rev. D. M. Wood, of Lebanon; and J. T. Hamilton, of Chicago.

Chancellor Hickman, who has charge of the field work and is therefore in control of the organized effort throughout the State to raise $500,000 as an endowment for the college, reported that he had raised over $100,000 during the last six months and that of this sum, over $90,000 had been collected during the last three months.

It is settled that there will be no change in the personnel of the faculty and no immediate addition to the present college buildings, although important extensions are contemplated for the future. The business of to-day's meeting will be the election of a routine nature, as the annual election of officers does not take place until next June.

Indian Maidens at Empire.

The Indian Maidens, with Lillian Washburn in the chief role, began an engagement at the Empire Theater yesterday afternoon, playing to a packed house. Miss Washburn is well known on the vaudeville stage as a vocalist. It is claimed she is properly fitted to lead the Indian Maidens because she has Indian blood in her veins.

In the musical farce, "Pocahontas," which opens the performance, Miss Washburn plays an Indian love song and in the whole she gives some vocal selections which are illustrated with living pictures, members of the company posing in these pictures. The Indian marriage dance by the maidens who appear in Indian costume is artistically arranged.

The closing burlesque is entitled "Parisian Follies," which deals with the troubles of a French physician. The solo, in addition to Miss Washburn, includes Tom Nolan and Cora White, who appear in a comedy sketch entitled "A Tramp's History." Both have been seen before with other vaudeville organizations. The Le Mar Sisters, Theresa and Jessie, have come from some of the best dancers in the West and Yost, comedians, have a comparatively new act which "took" with the audience yesterday. Both author and play were new to Indianapolis, but yesterday's enthusiastic reception made it plain that Mr. Le Brand understands thoroughly the wants of patrons of popular houses. "On the Stroke of Twelve" is divided into five acts, all but one of which abound in interesting, not to say intensely exciting, lines and situations. The first act, which relates to the sensational escape from Sing Sing Prison of the hero and his friend in company with the real prisoners, was received with expressions of approval. The play takes its title from the fact that the clock strikes twelve, B. N. Worth, in the role of Moses Levi, carried off the honors, both in his acting and in his rendition of a funny song about the Columbia cup race, sung to the air "I Guess I'll Have to Telegraph My Baby." Harry Barfoot was not a conspicuous success as Henry Rutledge, the hero's father, but made a decided hit as the mysterious prisoner, No. 123. George W. Welch, as Jack Rutledge, and Augustus Halback, as George Bainbridge, were well received. The Misses Lydia and Clara Knott made very pretty pictures in their respective roles of Doris Rutledge and Jess Bainbridge. The scenery and settings are quite in harmony with the incidents of the play. Some startling effects are produced, notably the explosion in the prison in the third act and the burning house in the fourth. "On the Stroke of Twelve" continues with usual daily matinees. Thursday afternoon the play will be succeeded by Isham's Octoroons.

Sol Smith Russell Breaks Down.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Sol Smith Russell was obliged by illness to dismiss his audience at the Grand Opera House to-night. The breakdown occurred in the act, and Mr. Russell was standing behind a long table, the scene being that of a lawyer's office. Of a sudden it became apparent that he had lost his lines. His companion player of the scene tried to prompt him, but without success. Mr. Russell then rose, and in a weak voice and with rather incoherent phrases asked the audience to excuse his further effort and to consider the performance ended. He bowed his head and the curtain came down hurriedly as two of his associates rushed to his aid. He did not collapse utterly, however, as it was feared, but retired with little assistance to his dressing room. He was seen to leave the company with his wife and his manager, F. H. Berger, was driven to his hotel. No word was heard from him since he left the theater. The services of Dr. Frank Billings, nervous specialist, were sought by telephone. Dr. Billings reached the hotel before 11 o'clock. He declined to discuss the condition of his patient. It is denied, however, that the indignation was anything more than temporary in nature.

"Miss Hobbs" Well Received.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Charles Frohman presented Jerome K. Jerome's comedy, "Miss Hobbs," now running at the Lyceum Theater, London, this evening. The play and company met with a cordial reception. The principal roles were taken by Miss Evelyn Millard, Herbert Waring and Miss Agnes Miller.

Notes of the Stage.

It seems that there is nothing in the nature of a strike among the actors of the Grand who resign. He will remain all season.

"A Runaway Girl" will be at English's Opera House Friday night and at the matinee and night performances on Saturday.

Headed by James T. Powers, and including such feminine stars as Marie Celeste and the Misses Booth and Towler, this organization should be able to give an evening of comic opera that has rarely been equaled.

Isham's Octoroons, who follow "On the Stroke of Twelve" at the Park Thursday afternoon, number in their large company twelve persons whose talent as singers and specialty artists has been well known for some time. The farcical sketch entitled "7-11-7," with which the entertainment begins, is the funniest thing of its kind.

The sale of seats for the engagement of Odie Skinner in "The Liars," the first three days of next week, opened with a rush at English's Opera House yesterday morning. Mr. Skinner is always a prime favorite with Indianapolis theatergoers, and his performance in "The Liars" is to be congratulated upon securing him for their Christmas attraction. "The Liars" will be given Monday (Christmas) afternoon and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

A feature of the performance given by Harry Seamon's Extravaganza Company, which comes to the Empire the last three days of this week, is the graceful dancing of petite Addie Pavant, who it is said, has astonished the theatergoers of Australia, Europe and America.

Debate at Marion Club.

The Marion Club debaters will meet at the Marion Club this evening. Linton A. Cox will read a paper on "The Effect of the Spanish-American War on American Industries." Following the reading there will be a general discussion of the subject, to be led by Amos P. Hyman and Crates H. Bowen. No other meeting will be held until Tuesday, Jan. 9.

Christmas Photo Work.

We have special plates, paper and mounts for hurried holiday portraits—and results as good as though ten days were taken. Come for sittings on Friday evening.

KITCHELL STUDIO, 1238 North Pennsylvania street.

W. F. DEHM IS ARRESTED

CHARGED WITH SYSTEMATICALLY ROBBERING KIPP BROS. STORE.

He Had Been Employed There Four Years—Gus Klotz Is Also Taken Into Custody.

Last night Detectives Gerber and Morgan arrested and sent to police headquarters William F. Dehm, 127 Ohio street, and Gus Klotz, 123 South Meridian street. Dehm is charged with grand larceny and Klotz with receiving stolen goods.

Dehm has for four years been a clerk in the wholesale house of Kipp Brothers, 37 South Meridian street. The firm has at various times missed quantities of merchandise and finally Dehm was suspected of the thefts. When the case and it was found that Dehm had been carrying away at the end of the day's work quantities of gold and steel spectacles, pocket knives, pipes, jewelry, fountain pens and other small articles. These articles have been sold at various places in the city.

It is claimed the firm's losses by the thefts have been about $1,000, but Dehm, who confessed to the charge, said he had taken less than half that amount. When arrested he had on his person three dozen spectacles, several fountain pens and knives.

Klotz, it is claimed, helped Dehm to dispose of the stolen property and when arrested had some of the articles on him.

MUSICAL MATTERS.

Second Presbyterian Music.

The following programme will be presented at the Christmas services of the Second Presbyterian Church Sunday, Dec. 24. Quartet, Mrs. Lottie Adair Raschig, soprano; Alice Fleming Evans, alto; Mr. B. F. Miller, tenor, and Louis Dochez, bass; Chas. F. Hansen, organist.

—Morning—Organ Prelude—"Christmas Past." Night—"Hail the King"—H. N. Bartette. Quartet—"Comfort Ye My People"—H. N. Bartette. "Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—Gilchrist. "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices"—Hansen. Organ Postlude—"Symphonie"—Salome.

—Evening—Organ Prelude—"Holy Night." Quartet—"Calm on the Listening Ear of Night"—